

Notice structure and guidelines

All notices should have the

Notice to principal is notice to associates and to agents and to successors.

Notice to associates and to agent is notice to principal

At the top as shown. This means that regardless of who reads your notice, the content means exactly the same and should be treated as such by anyone that reads it.

Please look at the notice example for location of your name and address and please note the exclusion of the Post Code from your address, but the inclusion of the Post Code in their address. This is subtle but important.

Make a copy of your notice. You will attach stamps and thumb prints to both copies and make them as similar as possible as this will act your duplicate. On the back of the notice you will be sending to them, be sure to include 'Copy of true original document' on the back of the notice.

Your notice should be short and sweet, to the point. DO NOT tell them WHY you want your meter out. It is simply none of their business. They don't care if you cannot afford your bills anymore.

If you are PAY AS YOU GO, give 14 days for the final bill and statement as they will only be providing a summary of your top ups. If paying monthly or quarterly bills, give them 30 days as this is the proper procedure per contract law.

If your correspondence has been addressed to the Householder or Occupier, and you have been PAY AS YOU GO, you do not need to do cancel a contract with your supplier as one does not exist. However, if you have been paying via direct debit, you will still need to formally end your tacit agreement to pay by ending the implied contract.

Use 1p or £1 stamps to endorse your paperwork, these stamps will give you jurisdiction over your paperwork – Buy sheets of 1p stamps and keep for when you need to write a notice. Believe me, once you start all of this, you will comprehend the significance of taking care of your own affairs.

Buy a red ink pad from eBay/ Amazon, etc, for thumb printing

Meters can be purchased from electricmetersales.co.uk and you will be looking at purchasing a single phase meter – NOT A DIGITAL METER!

Utilities Meter Removal Method 1

1. Inform energy company that it is your intention to end any contract it believes it has with you, with immediate effect.
2. Offer the final meter readings for both meters and request a final bill based on those readings. (Note: You are not obliged to give them any other information or speculate as to which energy supplier you may or may not be drawn into contract with at some future point in time).
3. Inform energy company that property belonging to them is on your property and they have 14 days in which to recover that property, if, after 14 days the property has not been recovered, it will be assumed the owner has abandoned it and then disposed of appropriately, any costs incurred by yourself as a result of disposal, will be reimbursed by the entity responsible for abandonment. Also point out the owner has the option to dispossess said property and should they choose to dispossess, the property will be disposed of appropriately at no cost to them.
4. Do not deviate from the above, you're ending the contract, their equipment is no longer required, you want a final bill calculation in order to clear the outstanding balance, if any, promptly upon receipt.
5. Remember, You are King of your castle, not them. Castle Doctrine Applies.

Utilities Meter Removal Method 2

1. Inform energy supplier that you are moving, do not say or write that you are moving home/house, 'moving', is sufficient, give them the date of your move which will be the last day of contract and request a final bill based on meter readings you have previously taken.
2. Do not give them a forwarding address or any other information, ask for the final bill along with a giro slip for the payment of any outstanding amount and an explanation as how the calculation for the final amount was formulated, to be sent to the current address as you expect mail to be forwarded.
3. The energy company should accept your cancellation of contract and confirm the cancellation via the issue of requested final bill.
4. Final bill arrives, if there's an outstanding balance, clear it (only if you can afford to, if not other arrangements can be made).
5. Any future mail in respect of utilities will now come to the property addressed to 'The Occupier', which obviously isn't you as your name is completely different, on any and all correspondence received and addressed to 'The Occupier', write the following: RETURN TO SENDER ADDRESSEE NOT KNOWN and then pop, without a stamp, in your nearest post box, do not rush, never rush.

A thumbprint autograph can be a thumbprint alone in red ink, or it can be over-scribed with any handwritten autograph in a different colour such as blue, for clarity. It is used to evidentially declare your Living Standing, such as on living identification, affidavits, and on legal/lawful Notices. It is often followed by a further declaration confirming your living rights, and protecting yourself from liability. It absolutely rebuts any presumption that you are acting in joinder to a dead artificial legal person. Obviously, NO corporate legal fiction actor can make a thumbprint autograph.

Here you will provide a brief description explaining what you want. Tell THEM what you want and what they need to give you. Do not tell them why you are asking. Remember to give them 14 or 30 calendar days (not working days) for them to fulfill their obligation to you.

You are Requiring NOT Requesting. Remember that as the customer, you are King or Queen.

Sign off your notice with the following,

In Sincerity,

Brenda: Forsythe
